Fever and Ague,

Fever and Ague, from which mankind suffer over a large part of the giobe, is the consequence of a diseased action in the system, induced by the poisonous miam of vegetable decay. This exhalation is evolved by the action of solar heat on wet soil, and rises with the watery vapor from it. While the sun is below the horizon this vapor lingers near the earth's surface, and the virus is taken with it through the lungs into the blood. There it acts as an irritating poison on the internal viscera and excreting organs of the body. The liver becomes torpid and fails to secrete not only this virus, but also the bile from the blood. Both the virus and the bile accumulate in the circulation, and produce violent constitutional disorder. The spleen, the kidneys, and the stomach sympathize with the Hver, and become disordered also. Finally, the instinct of our organism, as if in an attempt to expel the noxious infusion, concentrates the whole blood of the body in the internal excretories to force them to east it out. The blood leaves the surface, and rishes to the central organs with congestive violence. This is the Cattat. But in this effort it fails. Then the Fiven follows, in which the blood leaves the central organs and rushes to the surface, as if in another effort to expel the irritating poison through that other great excretory—the skin. In this also it fails, and the system abandons the attempt exhausted, and waits for the recovery of strength to repeat the hopeless effort another day. These are the fits or paroxysms of Feven And Accuments the health if it is not removed.

We have labored to find, and have found, an mine the health if it is not removed.

We have labored to find, and have found, an reason to believe this is a surer as well as sufer remedy for the whole class of diseases which are caused by the minimatic infection, than any other which has been discovered; and it has still another important advantage to the public, which is, that it is cheap as well as good.

Blood. Eruptions, Carriers, Ulears, and all other varietiessed long standing complain a, both external and internal.

For some ten years Dr. T. has devoted his entire time to chronic diseases, treating thousands as marily, many of whom had exhausted every other resource within reach. In no case we make sick to make well, or tear down to build up again.

The medicines can be taken with sately by the most selicate, and patients may tenain at home and continue with prudence their ordinary diet and exercise. Many have recovered under the treatment after triends and physicians had given up all hops, the indisparable evidence of which can always be turnished. Invalids, however reduced or despairing, are toyined to call, and may be assured that no encouragement will be given or expenses incurred, without a corresponding prospect of recovery. prospect of recovery.

which neutralizes this malarious poison in the blood, and stimulates the liver to expel it from the blood, and stimulates the liver to expel it from the blood, and stimulates the liver to expel it from the blood, and stimulates the liver to expel it from the blood, and stimulates the liver to expel it from the blood, and stimulates the liver to expel it from the body. As it should, so it does ever this additional or or rather does what is of more service to those subject to this infection. If taken in season it expels it from the system as it is absorbed, and thus keeps those who use it free from its attacks; keeps the system in health although exposed to the disease. Consequently it not only cures, but protects from the great variety of affections which are induced by this inslignant influence, such as Remittent Ever. Chilf Ever, Dumb, or Maskel Ague, Periodical Headache, or Bilitus Headache, Billious Ever, Neuralgia, Rheumatian, Gout, Blindiers, Toothache, Earache, Catarth, Asthma, Palpitations, Palnial Affections of the Stomach and Boaols, all of which, when arising from this cause, will be found to assume more or less the intermittent type. This "Aoux Coux" removes the cause of these derangements, and cures the disease.
